Second Day's Session of the Teacher's Institute.

Institute met as per adjournment in the Thirteenth Ward Hall, Superintendent Morgan, presiding. Opened by singing "Cladly Meeting." Prayer by G. M. Mumford, Choir sang. Roll called. Minutes of Monday's meeting read and approved.

It was explained that Mr. Toronto on "History," was out of town, but Mr. Cummings had consented to continue the subject of "Drawing," wnich he spoke upon at a previous meeting of the association Miss S E. Vincent on "The Best Method of Teaching Orthography," said orthography is being able to write words correctly, not to stand up in a line and repeat the letters. We learn to spell that the orthography of our letters, correspond ence or any written article may be correct. Hence she would teach her pupils to write words, and also teach hem the meaning of those words.

Miss Emma Finen on "Penmanship," thought the eye should be educated to recognize the correct form of the word, and then the hand in making it. Had adopted the Spencerian system, but did not use copy books with little pupils, as they were apt to think they could not do so well as the copy, and get discouraged.

Mr. Commings on "Drawing," said drawing in the district schools must be of a simple nature, and the tescher must be governed by the ability of his class. He kept his class. for some time on straight lines then gave them figures con-taining curved and straight lines combined. When the class is sufficiently advanced it would be good to introduce perspective. After giving a rew plain and easy lessons on this, take up objects in the school room, such as buckets, hats, pitchers,

After an animated discussion on the subjects lectured upon, meeting adjourned un'il 2 o clock.

On "Schoolhouse and Grounds," Mr N. A. Woodbury said that choice and rare plants and even early vegetables receive the almost undivided attention of the gardener. tie applies himself constantly to their care and culture, getting proper light, ventilation, temperature, etc. But do we as carefully rear and tend the children God has entrusted to our care? The idea that any kind of a house is good enough to edu cale children in is a mistake. School buildings should be pleasantly situated, with surroundings of such a nature as to excite the admiration of the child. The inside should be furnished with every convenience necessary to its comfort and proper instruction.

The County Superintendent read that portion of the school law referring to the time of the year for opening and closing schools, and desired the teachers to comply with it so far as possible. A vote of thanks was tendered the officers of the association. After benediction oy President John Morgan the session closed to resume its labors at me time in August.

Before separating Superintendent Morgan announced that a committes had made arrangements for all present to adjourn to the ice cream parlors adjoining the Opera House, and partake of refreshments. A pleasant time was enjoyed, after which teachers and friends parted with many expressions of good

June, 16th, 1884. Editors Herald:

Mr. Ole Jensen, wife and child had a narrow escape from drowning yesterday while crossing the Weber river, at this place The horses which he was driving were drowned, the wagon turned over, throwing Mr. Jensen, wife and child into the river. After Mr. J. had caught a bush growing on the side of the river, and when about to give up, he felt something strike his leg, which proved to be his child. This gave him renewed courage; he caught the child, and with the assistance of his son, who came to the rescue, succeeded in reaching the land. Mrs. Jensen was fortunate in saving herself, after drifting down the stream some distance. The wagon and horses drifted down the stream about seventy-five yards, and with the help of the citizens were brought to land.
